Volumetric Fund Grows – The Next Generation

Pearl River, New York, June 23, 2015 – Volumetric Fund (Ticker: VOLMX), has hired Jeffrey Gibs, as Executive Vice President, to grow the Fund’s presence in the community and enhance its operations.

With over 26 years of investment industry experience, Jeffrey brings experience from many areas. While his years of service are many, some of his experience includes: Manager of Private Banking in the global custody division at JP Morgan Chase, Head of Portfolio Administration and Compliance Officer at DLIBJ Asset Management and most recently as Vice President in the Fund Services group at US Bancorp.

Gabriel Gibs, Jeffrey’s father, founded the Fund in 1979, and is the current Chief Executive Officer and Co-Portfolio Manager. “We look forward to Jeffrey joining the organization, as we continue to grow our business”, said Irene Zawitkowski, President and Co-Portfolio Manager.

Volumetric Fund is a “no-load” (no commissions) US equity mutual fund, with an objective of capital growth and downside protection during adverse market conditions. The Fund offers a variety of regular and retirement accounts for individuals and businesses.

While Volumetric’s investors are across the US, many of our shareholders live locally. Unlike a large company, our local presence, allows our shareholder the unique opportunity to speak directly with the portfolio managers. As Rockland County’s only mutual fund, many of our shareholders have grown by “word of mouth” and personal recommendations.

Information about the Fund can be obtained by calling 800-541-FUND or visiting volumetric.com. The Fund trades under the ticker: VOLMX
